

More price increases

by Julie Ireton

The Cafeteria and L'Arcade prices have been increased in some cases by more than 25% and the students at Glendon are angry and frustrated.

Every student living in resgoes to the University and the student never sees it again. The remaining $1495 or $1695 is given back to the student in the form of scrip which can only be spent in the Glendon cafeteria, The Bistro or L'Arcade (all run

idence at Glendon is obligated to pay for either the $1695 or the $1895 meal plan (unless you are one of the lucky few to get on the kitchen plan). $200 from each meal plan payment by Restauronics) or in the Café de la Terrasse.

What it comes down to is that students receive two hundred dollars less to spend on their meals this year, besides having to contend with drastic increases in food prices.

A survey of a few students around the Glendon campus, indicated that most are fed up with paying extra for the same quality of service. One student noted that the cereal she bought at L'Arcade had a price sticker covering up the price that was possibly placed there last April. The old price was 30¢ less than the new price of $3.95; a high price to pay for stale cereal!

Prices of smartfood and potato chips have gone up 75¢ from $2.25 to $3.00. Everfresh carbonated drinks have gone up to $1.65. A comparison of the same product at a Toronto variety store, revealed a price of only $1.05.

This raises valid questions as to why we, as students, have to pay much more on this campus for our daily rations compared to the average Torontonian.

The greatest difficulty with bringing about a change is the fact that Restauronics receives a guaranteed income of scrip.

This comes from almost 400 residence students that depend on the Cafeteria and L'Arcade for all their meals, regardless of quality or service. Off campus students, faculty and visitors who frequent Restauronics facilities must also be included.

In the next issue of Pro Tem there will be an update on the subject of the Meal Plan and hopefully, an explanation of where the $200 services charge actually goes.

Tough summer for students

by Robert Mackey

Summertime creates ideas of fun in the sun and a time to relax and enjoy life. Unfortunately, for many students who stayed at Wood Residence from May until the end of August, the word 'summertime' took on a darker meaning.

Students and Hospitality Glendon staff are quick to admit that residents had a hard time finding steady, well-paying jobs this past summer season.

"Dix millions de personnes se battaient pour le même job," a exagéré Frédéric Tremblay, un des étudiants frustrés par le manque de travail à Toronto. Il a fallu pour beaucoup d'étudiants, prendre plusieurs emplois à temps-plein.

As an example of the severity of the problem, Tremblay even felt compelled to register with an employment search agency. Although, even this proved unsuccessful.

La portière de la résidence Wood, Debbie Manger, a aussi mentionné le cas de trois ou quatre étudiants qui n'ont pas eu assez d'argent pour payer leur loyer et qui, par conséquent ont dû quitter leurs chambres.

Echoing this idea, Fiona Kay of Hospitality Glendon felt that the number of students behind on their rent was "more than average."

Les résidents devaient normalement payer leur loyer chaque mois. Mais en vérité, Mme Kay a dit que Hospitalité Glendon a dû laisser les étudiants payer quand ils le pouvaient. Et par ailleurs, elle a ajouté qu'après le mois de mai, elle ne recevait que de petits versements chaque semaine.

May is considered the hardest month for students to round up money as they are just beginning to work and paycheques are not coming in.

Student Janet Ellis comparing this summer to others past described how she was once able to pick and choose jobs and, since they offered high pay, she worked when she liked. Ellis summed things up by saying, "It seemed to me that I had a lot more cash".

The price for a room in Wood Residence was $9.50 per night, up 6.3% from last year's rates.

Details differ from person to person with regard to whether or not there was an equal or lesser number of students who stayed at Glendon this past summer. However, all seem to feel that Hospitality Glendon was very understanding and lenient when demanding late rent payments.

The actual number of students in residence over the summer was estimated at 180, with 120 students staying the entire period, and close to 60 renters staying part of the summer.

Ensemble pour une année exceptionnelle

Sans pour autant en oublier les anciens, bienvenue à tous les nouveaux membres de la communauté glendonienne. C'est là un agréable devoir dont doit s'acquitter Pro Tem au début de chaque année académique; mais cette fois, bien plus que par le passé, Pro Tem tend la perche à toutes les forces vives de Glendon, tant au niveau des étudiants qu'à celui des membres des corps professoral et administratif pour qu'ensemble, nous marquions d'une pierre blanche cette année exceptionnelle qui sacralise le quart de siècle du Collège Glendon ainsi que les trente ans d'existence de Pro Tem. Tel est le sens du "composez-le vous même" de l'éditorial du précédant et premier numéro de cette année. C'est là un appel solonnel à la conscientisation de tout un chacun quant à sa contribution directe ou indirecte à la vie de Pro Tem afin d'oeuvrer à la magnificence d'une académie qui, en plus des éléments sus-mentionnés, et aussi, rappelons-le, la première de l'après guerre-froide...

Gervais Oniane

Pro Tem welcomes your feedback and letters. They must not exceed 250 words and must be signed, accompanied with the author's phone number.

A la suite de la panne d'électricité majeure survenue à Glendon samedi dernier, nous remercions Hydro-Ontario pour ce contretemps qui aura permis aux étudiants de dégeler leurs réfrigérateurs sans le moindre effort. Sincèrement, merci.

Ⓧ Recherche en psychologie

Les professeurs ou les étudiants du Département de psychologie de Glendon entreprennent durant l'année diverses études et recherches. Avant son démarrage, chaque projet de recherche est soigneusement examiné par un comité d'éthique, et toutes les expériences entreprises sont sans danger. Ce genre de recherche est essentiel pour la santé du Département de psychologie et de son programme de cours. La poursuite des programmes de recherche en psychologie dépend en grande partie de la participation volontaire de sujets humains. L'administration du collège attire votre attention sur ces projets de recherches et vous demande de bien vouloir considérer avec toute l'attention voulue les demandes de participation volontaire à leurs études que pourraient vous présenter les chercheurs agréés par le Département. La plupart du temps une séance expérimentale dure environ 30 minutes et, en général, les étudiants qui y participent trouvent ces séances intéressantes.

Pub Night or Pub fright?

by Rony Behar

Commentary

Some good things never change and others unfortunately do. I'm referring to my experience at the first two pub nights of the current academic year. I came out of each with a feeling of shock and extreme nausea (and I had not even ingested one drop of alcohol).

This year the pub manage-ly no cosiness or ambiance and where stacked up chairs at each air hole barricade us from any alien invasion. The atmosphere was similar to that of a nuclear shelter filled with bodies wondering why they had paid a dollar to get in.

I do not know whether this measure was implemented by pure sadism or whether its purpose was to deprive all the new students from experiencing a pub night (sorry, you'll never know what it's like). It could

In my three years at Glendon, I have only missed five pub nights. These Thursday nights had a certain magic for me (whether it be black or white). The Café de la Terrasse (or pub) was built and decorated in a way that made it an ideal environment for socializing. On "normal" pub nights people would dance, drink, meet other people and generally have a good time. The following morning would be spent gossiping about which person had left with which other person the night before.

Unfortunately, all of this has changed. Now all we have is a humongous room where alcohol is being served. Furthermore, the prices for alcohol are definitely not set at student rates. The newcomers are probably not aware of the substantial price increases compared to last year. Yet, the Ontario Liquor Board, which basically sets the cost price of alcohol at our pub, did not match that increase. This is a perfect example of a non-profit organization.

For all the Glendonites whose only concern is getting that 5% in their body, I would suggest places such as the Hungarian Tavern on Queen St. W. (Molson Dry only $2.50!) or Queens University Engineering pub ($1.50 a beer!) and the list goes on. At least in these establishments you won't have to dig into your OSAP money to have a good time.

All of this has changed.

ment has decided to relocate one of Glendon's greatest traditions. Our famous Thursday pub nights are now Thursday cafeteria nights. They are being held in a huge place (where people eat all day) with absolute-even be that our supposed non-profit organization has decided to undertake a financial venture, by increasing the location's human body capacity, in order to obtain a hike in profits. Frankly, I'm not sure.

ACTUALITÉ

Where is everybody?

by Julie A Carbonneau

Everyone has probably noticed the signs around the school that advertise the availability of rooms in residence. Presumably, you are asking yourself why there are still some rooms available on campus. After all, at this time last year, the waiting list for a room in residence was only getting longer.

La personne la plus compétente pour répondre à cette question est sans doute Dominique Labrecque, la responsable des résidences. Elle m'a d'abord affirmé que d'une année à l'autre, la situation variait beaucoup, même si généralement il y avait une tendance vers une augmentation annuelle des demandes.

She did not have any statistics available at this time but admitted that there are fewer students from Quebec at Glendon, compared with last year's ratio. She attributes this to a combination of factors rather than to just one. "Some francophones did not come back to Glendon because they found the cost of living in residence high. But the cost of living in a big city and/or the political situation may also have influenced their decision."

Right now there are still about 15 beds available in residence, most of which are available in a double room. Vous avez probablement aussi remarqué l'abondance de "frosh" dans les résidences. This is due to a new policy introduced by York University which states that half of the rooms should be reserved for new students.

Even though it is mainly francophones who left at the end of last year, there are also many upper-year students who left residence to live off-campus or were simply refused rooms due to several administrative reasons.

Les francophones qui sont partis l'ont fait aussi pour plusieurs raisons. Surtout parce que pour le même montant ils pouvaient se payer une éducation dans leur propre province et un appartement au lieu d'une chambre en résidence. De plus, avec l'augmentation annuelle, plusieurs n'étaient pas en mesure de terminer leur baccalauréat ici de toute façon. Le bureau de liaison de Glendon a d'ailleurs concentré ses efforts pour tenter de recruter plus de franco-Ontariens.

La nouvelle politique que York a introduite cette année vise à encourager les étudiants plus âgés à chercher un appartement hors campus après une première année en résidence. This policy should have been enforced last year, but Glendon was able to keep the old standards for another year. It is Dominique Labrecque's opinion that the housing situation in Toronto has improved enough over the past year to meet a student's budget.

This does not seem to be the case, however, when you examine the number of students who leave this campus because of financial reasons. Some new students even believe that if the coming increases remain as constant as those of the past four years, they might be unable to afford living at Glendon to finish their degree.

Toutes ces informations semblent confirmer l'inquiétude qu'avaient les étudiants l'an dernier quant à ce que Glendon ne devienne dans le futur, un collège réservé à la classe privilégiée. Il demeure très difficile de trouver un logement à Toronto présentement sans avoir à travailler ou sans avoir une aide quelconque. Que l'aide provienne des parents ou du gouvernement, elle est nécessaire pour vivre dans des conditions convenables.

The fact that rooms are still available at Glendon is surely the sign of a problem. Predicting that this problem is permanent and that it will only become worse is not very difficult, especially if that person is stuck trying to manage on a student's budget.

SCIENTIFIC GENIUS

TI-68: 254-function calculator for technical students and professionals

The further you go in engineering math and other technical courses, the more you need a scientific calculator that speeds you through complex problems. With 254 powerful advanced scientific functions, the TI-68 from Texas Instruments is both a smart choice and an exceptional value. The TI-68 easily solves up to five simultaneous equations with real or complex coefficients... evaluates 40 complex number functions... and allows polar and rectangular forms for entries and results.

A convenient last equation replay feature lets you check your answers without re-entering them. Formula programming provides up to 440 program steps for as many as 12 user-generated formulas. Perform operations in four number bases, one- and two-variable statistics, and Boolean logic operations. The polynomial root finder calculates real and complex roots of quadratic, cubic or quartic equations.

Only the TI-68 delivers so much functionality, value and ease in one compact, advanced scientific tool.

TI-81: Powerful, easy to use 300-Function graphic calculator

The TI-81 Graphics Calculator from Texas Instruments is the first graphics calculator developed with leading mathematics educators and experienced classroom teachers specifically for the special needs of mathematics education.

Power to attract young minds. The TI-81 has been designed to enhance students' understanding of the conceptual relationship between graphical and algebraic representations. It offers unique capabilities for easily entering and saving functions, choosing a viewing range, and automatically plotting functions. Computer-like features and cursor keys provide flexible zoom capabilities and greatly simplify tracing along functions, with both X and Y coordinate values displayed.

In addition to these interactive graphing features, the TI-81 also handles parametric equation graphing, matrix operations, and one- and two-variable statistical analysis. It even has extensive programming capabilities and special drawing and shading features. A special guidebook written with the help of leading mathematics educators is provided.

Designed for easy use. The clean-looking TI-81 provides more features than many complex-looking calculators by making extensive use of familiar "pull-down" screen menus. These menus permit clear, descriptive labels to identify complex functions so students can easily access, select, and execute desired operations. Students will appreciate the larger, well-spaced, colour-coded keys with clear descriptive names. Graphing, standard scientific, and advanced functions, along with the cursor keys, are logically arranged in groups to reduce confusion.

The Soldier's Room

by Lars Tilander

Short Story

There is a room upstairs at the end of the hall that no one has entered for 15 years. Not Mom, not Dad. Nobody. Just like everyone in this house, I can recreate the room for you simply from memory. On the inside of the door there is a hook. On that hook, carelessly hung, is a bath towel as well as a bathrobe. The bathrobe is slightly worn with little strings of thread dangling out because he always refused to buy a new one. He really liked that robe. It is sky blue, that was his favorite colour. We used to sit outside and stare at the summer sky as it hung, cloudless and empty. He enjoyed that.

The bed is unmade and has a number of magazines on it, scattered around the bundles of sheets and blankets. The scene is a myriad of Popular Mechanics, car magazines and even the occasional National Geographic. On the bedpost is a New York Yankees cap. That was his favorite team. I remember when Dad, him and I would go to the games. We had such a great time. Dad would talk and talk, about baseball, about statistics, about when he was our age... Now he doesn't say much at all. I remember all the times when Dad used to talk, now he won't say two words to me. Those were good times, when Dad used to talk.

There is a desk just under the window, too. There are papers scattered all over the place. Notes and poems and girl's phone numbers. A few books, too. Webster's Dictionary. Introduction To Drafting. Adventures of Tom Sawyer. There are others as well but I can't remember them all. Mom knows every one of them. She can recite all the books in his room and even their location. It's strange how, despite all that, she forgets my name and calls me by his.

of ladies dancing the Can-Can. He also has a flag from Harvard. He wanted to go there. He could have got in, too. He was so smart. I'm not. That's why I never went to university or even college. I'm just not as smart as he was. I remember Dad saying that when I told him I wanted to go to university. He said that was impossible and then he started to cry. That was only four years after.

On our mantle there are all sorts of pictures of him. Him with my mom, him with my dad. There are no pictures of me up there. There aren't any pictures of me anywhere in the house except for my room. On the mantle there is also a very special medal. For bravery. He was always brave. Brave like none of the rest of us could ever be.

I still live at home, with my mom and my dad. I work at a car rental place. It's okay. I have a room upstairs. The one at the other end of the hall. I'm going to enter that room someday... someday. But not today.

Un nouveau produit sur la francophonie

La francophonie existe, pourtant nous la connaissons mal et la comprenons encore moins. Qui fait partie de la francophonie? Pourquoi un tel projet international? Quel avenir lui est-il réservé?

En apportant des réponses à ces questions, l'Atlas de la francophonie vous invite à suivre le parcours de l'évolution du français et de la communauté francophone mondiale.

Ce nouveau produit est le résultat d'une recherche effectuée à l'Université Laval (Québec) par le groupe de recherche en géolinguistique avec le support du Conseil de la langue française. L'ouvrage présente d'une façon inédite un panorama de la francophonie mondiale en 5 volets: les racines du français, le français comme langue maternelle, le français comme langue seconde, le statut juridique du français et une vision socio-démographique de la francophonie.

La facture haut de gamme de l'Atlas de la francophonie (un coffret-relieur contenant une brochure, des cartes à volets pliés, une planche murale) ainsi qu'un design novateur en font un outil de références aussi attrayant qu'indispensable pour la bibliothèque, la salle de cours et tout foyer où le français et le beau sont à l'honneur. Le document présente une synthèse remarquable d'informations inédites où l'image l'emporte sur le texte pour un repérage optimal.

Produit par les Éditions Frison-Roche (Paris), Les Éditions La Liberté Inc. (Québec), et Les Publications du Québec, l'Atlas de la francophonie est en vente au coût de 49,95 $. Il est possible de se le procurer par la poste en écrivant à: Les Publications du Québec, Case postale 1005, Québec (Québec), G1R 7B5; ou par téléphone en composant le: (418) 643-5150, (Sans frais) 1-800-463-2100, (Télécopieur) (418) 643-6177.
